Ruth Oppenheim is a mixed media artist. Upon graduation, she worked for e-flux project space in New York City. In fall 2009, she began an MFA degree at Cornell University.

Ms. Oppenheim will talk about her experience working in the art world, the importance of free education, and the need to get out of New York City in order to invest in her art practice. She will show her work, which is influenced by her recent state of hibernation.

For more information about her work,
